Good Morning,

Can onboard as a professional services contract fairly easily. Main concern/risk here is insurance, and potentially lack thereof. We have provided more detailed feedback to Heather Ogilvie, but the one piece to validate with them is what insurance they have. City typically requires $5M. Flagging the risk here for potential discussion with our legal team.

Bringing Jay Renaud Jonathan Sweet into the conversation...

Further to Michelle's message, if they are not working in any police facility (e.g. just towing vehicles to an impound), vendor contract may work (even if self-employed) without the need to background them (CPIC / RMS / Criminal Intel checks).

Jay / Jonathan – your thoughts on this?

Hi Rob - are these 2 drivers with a company? Is this just a matter of a professional contract? If so, Finance will be able to assist...

Hi folks

We are at the last straw for a solution to towing some of these trucks. We have exhausted all options. We have two tow trucks secured and need two drivers. We have located two qualified drivers that will do the work. What is the process to get these individuals on contract within the day as we will required them as early on Friday.

Thanks

Please call me for more details.
